

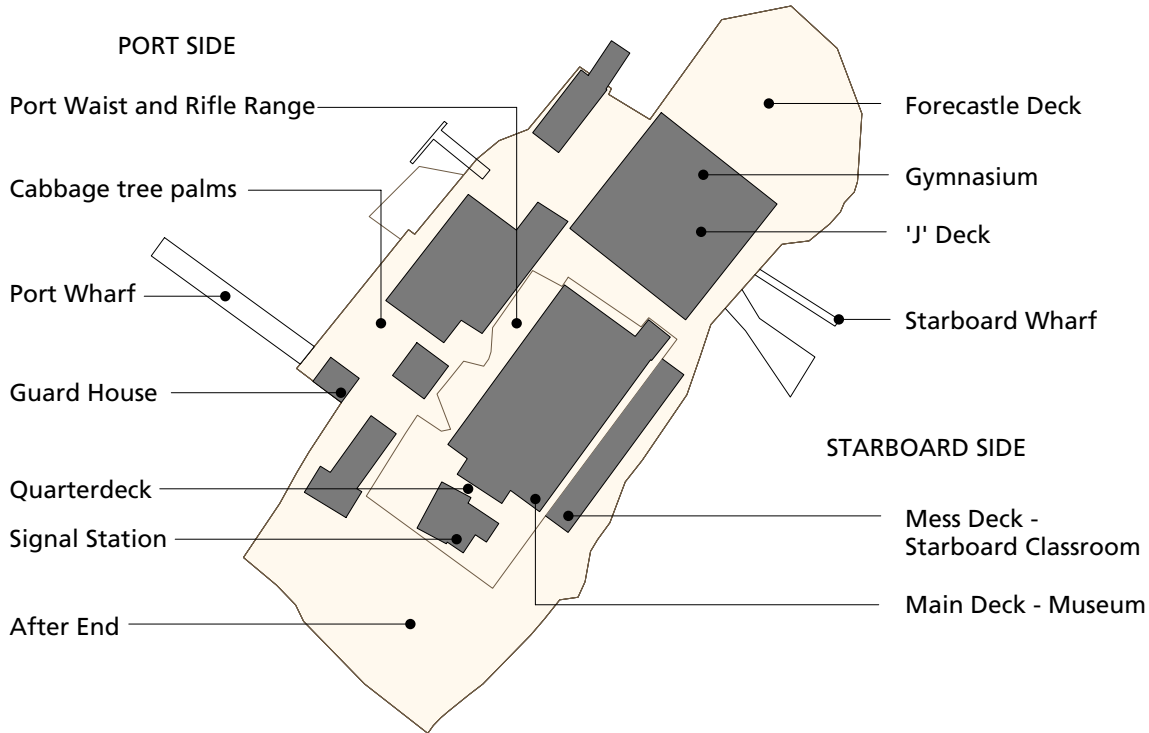

Fig. 6.2 Heritage Values

Snapper Island

Snapper Island has been assessed for its Cultural Significance in a Draft Preliminary Heritage Study (Clive Lucas, Stapleton and Partners, February 2001). This concluded it was of National Significance for its collection of naval memorabilia and of State Significance, as the headquarters of The Navy League in NSW for 45 years and as an island in Sydney Harbour. The buildings have not been individually assessed but are very much a part of a cohesive group which replicates the layout of a ship.
