Have your say: North Head Sanctuary

We are now in the early stages of refreshing our approach at North Head Sanctuary. This is the first of many opportunities to share your views with the Harbour Trust and we look forward to continuing the conversation.

North Head Sanctuary is an urban bushland retreat. It holds cultural significance for the Traditional Owners and Custodians of the land — the Gayamagal people — and is a valuable public parkland that has a special place in the hearts and minds of locals and visitors.

This site of national significance is a treasured public destination – it is a place of sanctuary and connection, an invaluable community destination, rich with history and opportunity. We believe North Head Sanctuary is a place for visitors to explore, discover and learn about the distinctive features of Australia's environment and heritage.

Rejuvenating and protecting the natural environment

North Head Sanctuary is home to endangered fauna and flora. Investing in its natural assets means the city retains and improves the health of its valuable native bushland.

Renewed focus towards First Nations aspirations in celebrating Country and culture

A place to understand and appreciate the story of the Gayamagal people, and engage with nature, Country and culture.

Preserving and interpreting our nation's military history for future generations

North Head Sanctuary presents a rare opportunity to enhance the visitor experience, to discover and learn about its strategic role in our country's military history during World War II. It is also an important site for remembering those who served in the Australian Defence Force during past conflicts.

North Head Sanctuary: a new public purpose and life

Finding innovative approaches to repurposing existing spaces, buildings and facilities in order to create memorable experiences.

We acknowledge the Gayamagal people, the Traditional Owners and Custodians of these lands. We pay our respects to Elders, past and present and emerging.
